Industrial Jewellery

In their 10th collection, Industrial Jewellery is revisiting their brand roots of balancing soft neutrals with an industrial edge. These pieces are inspired by London's infamous gloomy skies and warm brick architecture - crafting pieces that incorporate springs, ropes, rubber and other unusual materials, into wearable art. The result is a clean collection full of geometric shapes and handmade aesthetics.

BiniChic Barcelona

BiniChic, inspired by the Mediterranean Island, has a fresh, modern take on the bohemian vintage world of Fortuny, Tuscan frescos, nature and art. With their current collection, the designer used a mixture of bovine leather, sustainable bone, horns, geometric patterns as well as metallic adornments to create the layered look and feel of minerals, stones, wood and earth.

Eleanor Kalle

Eleanor Kalle is a lifestyle jewelry company focused on the balance between tough and sensual design. This current collection features sleek metallics with primitive geometry, herkimer quartz, oxidized silver and touches of crystal. These minimalist form pieces were created with the intent to make high-impact stackable stories, worn for seasons to come.
